"...a great holiday gift because you need nothing else to get started, and everyone will have fun trying to fold the flowers." - Sarah White, ourdailycraft.com

Maria Noble is the author of How to Make 100 Paper Flowers. Her lifelong passion for making flowers began as a child, when she watched her mother and aunt run a floral business. Using innovative methods, they made beautiful flowers from fabric, paper, and other materials for weddings and special events. Maria started her own business ten years ago, incorporating her inherited skills and exploring ideas of her own to create new, distinctive flowers. Her exquisite flowers are now sought out by consumers and businesses nationwide, including leading event planners in New York and Los Angeles. Maria lives in Avon, Connecticut, with her husband and two children. Find her online at www.stjudescreations.com and stjudescreations.blogspot.com.

Very nice simple beginner book.

The instructions are short and clear, not overly wordy. The steps are shown with clear color photos. The actual instruction part of the books is fairly short, which is good because it doesn't seem overwhelming for a beginner. The bulk of the book is origami paper so you can get started right away.

The little one this was bought for loved it.

My son really like this
