

The book was found

Aqueduct (Semaphore)

Synopsis

1919 is often recalled as the year of the Winnipeg General Strike, but it was also the year that water from Shoal Lake first flowed in Winnipeg taps. For the Anishinaabe community of Shoal Lake 40 First Nation, construction of the aqueduct led to a chain of difficult circumstances that culminated in their isolation on a man-made island where, for almost two decades, they have lacked access to clean drinking water. In Aqueduct: Colonialism, Resources and the History We Remember, Adele Perry analyzes the development of Winnipeg's municipal water supply as an example of the history of settler colonialism. Drawing from a rich archive of historical sources, this timely book exposes the cultural, social, political, and legal mechanisms that enabled the rapidly growing city of Winnipeg to obtain its water supply by dispossessing an Indigenous people of their land, and ultimately depriving them of the very commodity clean drinking water that the city secured for itself.

Book Information

Series: Semaphore

Paperback: 101 pages

Publisher: Arbeiter Ring Publishing (April 19, 2016)

Language: English

ISBN-10: 1894037693

ISBN-13: 978-1894037693

Product Dimensions: 4.9 x 0.4 x 6.8 inches

Shipping Weight: 4.2 ounces (View shipping rates and policies)

Average Customer Review: 4.0 out of 5 stars 1 customer review

Best Sellers Rank: #752,718 in Books (See Top 100 in Books) #161 in Books > Politics & Social Sciences > Politics & Government > International & World Politics > Canadian #204 in Books > Science & Math > Nature & Ecology > Water Supply & Land Use #279 in Books > Engineering & Transportation > Engineering > Civil & Environmental > Environmental > Water Quality & Treatment

Customer Reviews

Adele Perry is Professor of History and Senior Fellow at St John's College, University of Manitoba. She has taught there since 2000 and held the Canada Research Chair in Western Canadian Social History from 2003 to 2014. Perry is the author of On the Edge of Empire: Gender, Race, and the Making of British Columbia, 1846-1871 (2001), which won the Canadian Historical Association's Clio Award for the best book published on the history of British Columbia; co-won the American Historical Association Pacific Coast Branch Book Prize; and was shortlisted for the Canadian Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences Raymond Klibansky Prize for the best English-language book in the humanities. The book has been reprinted six times. Perry is also co-editor of three editions of Rethinking Canada: The Promise of Women's History. She has been awarded the Jensen-Miller prize for the best article in Western American Women's History and the Hilda Neatby Award awarded by the Canadian Committee on Women's History. Perry was co-chair of the 2014 Berkshire Conference on the History of Women. Since 2008 she has been book review editor for the Journal of Colonialism and Colonial History.

Good read

Download to continue reading...

Aqueduct (Semaphore) Water to the Angels: William Mulholland, His Monumental Aqueduct, and the Rise of Los Angeles

Contact Us

DMCA

Privacy

FAQ & Help